An unknown outside source advised on 6/17/38, that when the then communist, A. Phillip Randolph, was general organizer of the BOSCP, back in 1927, Morris L. Ernst, along with Norman Thomas and a host of other Socialists and "parlor bolsheviks", formed the Citizens' Committee of 100. This committee aided, either wittingly or unwittingly, in pushing the porters into the communist movement. Randolph was later forced to affiliate with the more moderate trade union movement and was more acceptable to the AFL.

The same source advised that Ernst and Randolph were among those whom Mayor La Guardia appointed to a Committee of Eleven to investigate the Harlem riots of 3/10/35.

The same source advised that Ernst was a leftist, but was careful not to put his name on a CP membership card.

The following references pertain to information furnished to the Treasury Department on 9/18/42, by the Bureau to the effect that two individuals by the names of Fleury and Randolph represented themselves as Agents of the Treasury Department in the Negro section of Chicago. It was suggested that these men might be identical with Philip Randolph, head of the Pullman's Union, and one Fleury, an officer of the Dining Car Employees Union. The Secret Service had investigated these two men from the standpoint of Presidential protection and it was thought possible that a mistake had been made and it had been intended to report that the Secret Service had investigated Fleury and Randolph rather than that they were Agents of the Treasury Department. A report from Headquarters, Third Service Command, US Army, Intelligence Division, Baltimore, Md., dated 1/30/43, revealed that on 1/21/43, A. Philip Randolph addressed a meeting of the Emblem Club, in Philadelphia. He urged the formation of large committees to formulate plans for practicing civil disobedience to be climaxed by a meeting in Chicago when Randolph would preside as chairman. He also urged that Negro leaders prepare for a World Conference to be held one week prior to the Peace Conference at the end of the war, at which time Negroes would refuse to accept "second-class citizenship." NY letter, dated 2/15/43, captioned "Citizens Committee For War Jobs" (100-160769), revealed that [] advised that on 1/11/43, Ferdinand Smith, Vice President and National Secretary of the National Maritime Union, contacted Dorothy Funn, Executive Secretary of the Negro Labor Victory Committee. He told Funn that he had been one of the delegates to Washington, DC, protesting the action of Paul V. McNutt in calling off the hearings of the railroad dispute by the FEPC. He stated that there was a hulabaloo about A. Philip Randolph, although Randolph was not there. b2 b7D

Informants reported that a MOWM meeting was held on 1/13/43, at the YMCA, NYC. It was decided that a delegation from NYC would go to Washington on 1/18/43, and Randolph would be among these delegates.

A highly confidential source obtained notes from the office of Carol Weiss King, 100 Fifth Ave., NYC, which pertained to an emergency meeting to save the FEPC, held on 1/19/43. The meeting was sponsored by the National Federation For Constitutional Liberties. These notes revealed that one of the decisions arrived at at this meeting was the support of the Harlem mass meeting called by the Negro Labor Victory Committee and the Peoples Committee at the Abyssinian Baptist Church, NYC, on 1/25/43. Randolph was scheduled to speak.

On 1/25/43, the above mentioned meeting at the Abyssinian Church was held. Randolph, scheduled as a speaker, did not attend, but he had sent a representative to speak for him, in the person of Ashley Totten, National Secretary of the BQSCP.

There had been no indication that the MOWM under Randolph had cooperated with the communist front organization in its protest to McNutt.

This reference set out information concerning the activities of A. Philip Randolph in connection with the FEPC in Washington, DC for the period of 1/19-25/43. On 1/19/43, Randolph called upon Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission, with a delegation. McNutt refused to see the whole delegation and Randolph refused to see McNutt without the delegation. Randolph spoke to a meeting of the Minorities Workshop, an outgrowth of the League For Industrial Democracy, a Socialist front group, on 1/23/43, in Washington. His speech was entitled "The Muzzling of the FEPC." On 1/24/43, he spoke to a meeting at the Vermont Ave. Baptist Church, Washington, DC. This meeting was sponsored by the PCOCLF. The Council of United Negro Labor Leaders of Washington had insisted that the local CP cooperate with the MOWM and Randolph in the fight for the FEPC. An article from the 1/25/43 issue of "PM" entitled "Negro Leaders Study Tactics", which reported on the meeting of 1/24/43, at the Vermont Ave. Baptist Church, was enclosed.

An Army Service Forces report, for the period of 10/3/43 to 10/9/43, revealed that A. Philip Randolph, while in Boston for the AFL Convention, addressed a meeting of the Boston Division of the BOSCP on 10/3/43. "Negro and Discrimination in the Federal Government and the Negro and Labor" was his topic.

On 10/4/43, Randolph spoke at a meeting held at 528 Massachusetts Ave., Boston. The meeting was called for the purpose of activating the local chapter of the MOWM.

The Socialists planned on making a national issue out of the case of Pvt. Alton Levy, who was court-martialed and sentenced. A leaflet issued by the WDL, 112 East 19th St., NYC, charged that Levy was prosecuted for protesting against anti-Negro discrimination at the Lincoln Air Base, Nebraska. An Army Service Forces report for the period 10/10/43 to 10/16/43, revealed that A. Philip Randolph aroused the anger of labor leaders attending the AFL Convention. He charged the AFL with having a narrow racial policy. He named various labor organizations and their policy on excluding Negroes. The leaders of these unions charged Randolph with committing a great dis-service to the Negroes in their fight against racial discrimination by inserting misstatements into the convention record. The concensus was that Randolph was too belligerent in his demands.

Randolph also made a further plea for abolition of discrimination before 50 persons at an affair sponsored by the Gannett Club, a group of Unitarian youths, at the Arlington St. Church, Boston. His subject was "the Negro Problem-Now and After the War."

This reference set out the activities and association of A. Philip Randolph with Hunter Pitts O'Dell (100-358916) in NYC for the period April, 1959 to approximately June, 1960. Randolph was Chairman of both the Youth March on Washington and the Committee to Defend Martin Luther King. Jr., and O'Dell was active in both organizations. O'Dell had been recalled to NY by Randolph for a special job. (Not further explained) Randolph founded the NALC in Detroit, Mich., and O'Dell worked behind the scenes for the CP at this founding convention. Randolph and King headed the March on the Conventions Movement For Freedom Now and O'Dell handled activities in connection with the planned Negro march on the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

[] advised that on 7/29/62, Irving Potash (62-21381) met in Chicago with a group of CP persons in industry and the NALC at Chicago. Potash pointed out that in NY certain CP members were expelled from the NALC for provocative statements concerning the NALC and criticism of the Steel Workers Union. As a result, A. Philip Randolph had called for removal of all communists from the NALC. He stated that since George Meany was to be the main guest speaker at the coming NALC convention, this indicated that Meany and Randolph had reached an agreement on discrimination in the AFL-CIO and as a result, the NALC might become non-militant. To salvage the situation, the CP also expelled these same people and were attempting to contact Randolph to point this out. There was also a move within 3 or 4 branches of the NALC to have Randolph removed as head of the organization, and the CP supported this move. Chicago, Cleveland, NY, Buffalo and California branches of the NALC would secede if Randolph persisted in removing the communists.

A penciled notation indicated the NY members who were expelled from the NALC were probably members of the Buffalo, NY chapter.

[] advised that at a CP of Illinois State Board meeting held in Chicago, on 10/10/62, Claude Lightfoot (100-108) reported that the National Committee of the CP, USA had estimated that the NALC was a positive movement. He noted that the Chicago Chapter of the NALC was negative which could be disastrous for the CP of Illinois. The coalition through which the CP of Illinois worked within the NALC was mainly composed of ex-communists and some socialists. Lightfoot stated that because of these conditions and because President Meany of the AFL-CIO would allow the defeat of the NALC, if such a defeat followed, it would help give credence to Meany's remarks in San Francisco, that A. Philip Randolph did not speak for Negro workers. Lightfoot also stated that if the CP of Illinois supported the present line of the Chicago Chapter of the NALC, it could be said in the future that the failure of this chapter was the work of the CP and Randolph could then make more red-baiting tirades against the CP. RLW

[redacted] advised that on 6/1 and 2/63, Martin Luther King (100-106670), Stanley Levison, a NY attorney, and Clarence Jones, Acting Executive Director of the Ghandi Society For Human Rights, held discussions on Civil Rights. King suggested that there be a mass march or the impression of a mass march be given, not just on Washington but in every State. At the same time a work stoppage would be called all over America. Jones and Levison suggested that King discuss his proposal with Roy Wilkins of the NAACP and Phil (A. Philip Randolph) before making a public announcement. King suggested that either Levison or Jones see Phil and work out a statement along the lines of the new militancy throughout the country. (S)

(U) [redacted] advised that in February, 1963, Levison was a secret member of the CP, USA, and contributed funds to the CP on a regular basis. (S)

[redacted] (protect identity) advised that he knew Jones in late 1953 or early 1954 to be a member of the LYL.

[redacted] advised that on 6/6/63, Martin Luther King (100-106670) and Stanley Levison, a NY attorney, had a discussion. King inquired if Levison had talked to Phil (A. Philip Randolph, President, BOSCP) and Levison replied that Clarence Jones had reached Phil in Chicago and Phil liked the idea regarding a mass march on Washington that would bring nationwide attention to the cause of the Negro. Randolph wanted to talk to King in view of the fact that Randolph had planned a similar march in the fall and he wanted to try to coincide his with that proposed by King. Levison suggested that King contact Randolph as soon as possible to discuss this matter. (S)

[redacted] (S) advised that on 6/8/63, a meeting was held under the auspices of the Chicago New Horizons For Youth, at the Hamilton Hotel, 200 South Dearborn. Daniel Queen read a report based on a brochure entitled "Three Strikes For Peace" that had been printed a year previously by the Progressive Youth Organizing Committee (100-434236) in NYC. Queen quoted on the unemployment problem in the US which revealed that the Chicago area had recommended that action be taken along two different lines. These lines were as follows: (1) Push for the combination of a march on Washington called for by A. Phillip Randolph of the NALC. and (2) Act against a Chicago manufacturer for discriminatory hiring practices.

[redacted] advised on 11/16/63, that Bayard Rustin (100-158790) was writing a speech for A. Philip Randolph, who was to give it at the AFL-CIO Convention on 11/18/63, at the Americana Hotel, NYC. The speech was to deal with the civil rights movement. Rustin planned to meet with Randolph, Walter Reuther, and Reuther's assistant, Tom Kahn, to make sure the speech would be in complete agreement with the views of Reuther. Reuther was to speak following Randolph and would agree with Randolph's remarks. This strategy was aimed at putting George Meany on the spot.

This reference was a letter to the Director from Mrs. Arthur E. Doane, 258 Wire Mill Road, Stanford, Conn., dated 11/13/63. Mrs. Doane stated that there was so much confusion regarding such organizations as CORE and the NAACP. One of the questions she asked was: "Are A. Philip Randolph and Martin Luther King completely free from whatever communist affiliations they may have had?"

A letter to Mrs. Doane, dated 11/18/63, advised her that with respect to her inquiries, the information in FBI files was confidential.

A letter from Legat, Bonn, Germany, dated 12/17/63, enclosed a photographic copy of a letter dated 11/19/63, addressed to Mrs. Eslanda Robeson, c/o Peace Council, Taubenstrasse 1/2, Berlin, W8, German Democratic Republic, sent by Carlton B. Goodlett (100-352389). Goodlett wrote that he had been given the task of giving a position paper at one of the commissions in Warsaw and he had had no success in involving American Negroes in the Warsaw Session. Invitations sent to everyone had been ignored except for Phillip Randolph who had declined because of pressing union business. Goodlett was also scheduled to speak in London to the conference "Breakthrough to Disarmament" on the subject of the American Peace Movement.

The following references in the file captioned "CP, USA", contain information pertaining to the activities of A. Philip Randolph. Randolph was founder of the MOWM, the NALC, was active in the struggle for a permanent Fair Employment Practices Act, and the fight against segregation in the Armed Forces. The CP, although in favor of civil rights for Negroes, attacked Randolph and accused him of being a "Trotskyite" because Randolph was extremely anti-communist and refused to allow them in his organizations. The CP attempted to infiltrate the NALC and the MOWM. Randolph spoke at numerous meetings which dealt with civil rights. A few of these meetings were held by alleged CP fronts and some were connected with the Socialist Party.

The following references in the files captioned "Committee To Aid The Monroe Defendants", file #100-436091, and "Monroe Defense Committee", file #100-436190, contain information pertaining to the activities of A. Philip Randolph. A meeting had been held in Randolph's office to discuss the formation of a committee to defend the persons arrested in the racial riots which had taken place in Monroe, NC, and to defend Robert Williams, a Negro who was accused of kidnapping in connection with these riots. Although Randolph did not agree with Williams, he felt something ought to be done. General concensus at this meeting, was that nothing could be done at that time at least until Williams, who was then a fugitive, made a statement. Others decided to go ahead and form a committee with the idea that if Randolph did decide to form one that they could then dissolve or join Randolph's group. There was no indication that Randolph formed or became a member of the above captioned organizations.

The following references in the file captioned the "Harlem Trade Union Council" which later became the "National Negro Labor Council" (NNLC), file #100-367632, contain information pertaining to the activities of A. Philip Randolph. The NNLC was organized by the CP to counteract the anti-communist group in Harlem headed by Randolph and Frank A. Crosswaith. This anti-communist group, the Negro Labor Committee, issued a press release signed by Randolph and others which denounced the NNLC. At one time it was suggested that the NNLC attempt to get rightist groups such as Randolph's BOSCP to join with the NNLC in demanding Negro representation in the AFL-CIO merger.

The following references pertain to the activities of A. Philip Randolph with the March On Washington Movement. The MOWM was founded by Randolph and an anti-communist group that split off from the NNC in the Fall of 1940. The group planned on a March On Washington in order to present grievances of the Negro to Government officials and for the abolishment of discrimination. In June, 1941, Randolph called off a March On Washington at the request of Government officials but the organizational set up was retained.

In early 1942, Randolph's group expressed dissatisfaction with the Negroes' position and again decided to use the organization as a pressure group to demand equal rights for the Negro. The MOWM held a National Conference from 6/30-7/4/43, at Chicago, where Randolph asked for a powerful nonpartisan political bloc to bring pressure on Congress for the enactment of the anti-poll tax bill and anti-lynching bills. This bloc would also ask that Negroes be given first-class citizenship status. The Socialist Party, in 1943, was sponsoring the MOWM. The MOWM sponsored the cause of Winfred Lynn, who had sued the US Government in an effort to abolish segregation in the Armed Forces. Randolph also advocated civil disobedience in an effort to end discrimination in the armed forces. He spoke at numerous MOWM meetings. The CP tried unsuccessfully to "muscle in" on control of the MOWM. Randolph and the MOWM picketed the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in an effort to obtain more jobs for Negroes with the company. A mass demonstration was planned by the MOWM for 7/17/45.

The following references in the file captioned "Racon", file 100-135, contain information pertaining to the activities of A. Philip Randolph in the struggle for Negro rights. Randolph, one of the most prominent Negroes in the civil rights field, organized the MOWM. This organization was the cause of EO-8802 being issued, dealing with the creation of FEPC in national defense industry. He was an officer in, sponsored and endorsed numerous organizations and movements concerned with gaining civil rights for Negroes. In this connection, he traveled to numerous cities throughout the US and Canada, speaking to various organizations concerned with Negro rights. He spoke on the MOWM, advocated a permanent FEPC and the abolition of the poll tax. Randolph was bitterly anti-communist and the communists attacked him repeatedly for his red-baiting. He had organized the NNC in 1936 and resigned in 1940 when CP influence became noticeable.

The following references in file 61-7563 pertain to Activities Among Negroes-CP. A. Philip Randolph was President and one of the founders of the NNC. He resigned when the communists started to influence the organization. He was editor of a publication called "The Black Worker", and was President of the BOSCP. The BOSCP demanded freedom for Tom Mooney, Angelo Herndon and the Scottsboro Boys. Randolph was a leader of the Coordinating Committee For Employment, helped organize a new Negro union, the National Council of Dining Car Employees at Omaha, Nebraska, in November, 1937, and he signed a call to a conference for the Medical Bureau and North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy and the Negro Peoples' Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy. He was Chairman and founder of the MOWM. Randolph was a close friend of James W. Ford, Negro member of the CP Central Committee. He wrote an article for the "DW" 9/27/37, entitled "Negro Congress Will Give Weight to Union Drives, Randolph Says." He favored a Farmer-Labor Party to improve living standards and to protect civil and political rights. Randolph was referred to as a "left-wing socialist" and had signed a petition for presidential intervention on behalf of Odell Waller, Negro, who was sentenced to die for murder in Virginia. Randolph stated that the CP was no solution to the problems of the Negroes.

The following references in file 62-101087 pertain to Segregation. A. Philip Randolph was one of those who was instrumental in organizing the Prayer Pilgrimage For Freedom which was held in Washington, DC, on 5/17/57, to help dramatize the unity of the Negro against racial terror in the South. He was Co-Chairman of the Pilgrimage and he presided over the affair at the Lincoln Memorial. He was Chairman of a Youth March For Integrated Schools which took place in DC on 10/25/58. Randolph acted as Master of Ceremonies at this affair. It was noted that the CP had contacted sponsors of this march to see if there would be any objection to CP participation. The sponsors indicated that they didn't care who participated. Plans were made by Randolph for other marches in 1959 and 1960, but there was no indication the plans were carried out. He met with President Eisenhower and other Negro leaders in June, 1958, to discuss school integration problems and on 3/22/60, he addressed the NY Youth Committee For Integration. At this meeting he told the group that the communists had infiltrated the organization and that they should dissolve it. They followed his advice and dissolved the organization.

Randolph, President of the BOSCP, had been associated with either as a member of or sponsor of various CP fronts until 1940 when he quit the NNC because of CP influence in the organization. He was considered very anti-communist and was attacked by the CP for his stand on communism. The CP tried to infiltrate the NALC, but failed because Randolph controlled it completely. The President of the Dining Car and Railroad Food Workers Union, an alleged CP member, also attacked Randolph because of an award he had presented to AFL President William Green for his fight against discrimination.

The following references on A. Philip Randolph appear in the main file of Fred Stengel, et al; Civil Rights and Domestic Violence, 44-1706. This case was the result of arrests which grew out of picketing of the Palisades Amusement Park, Fort Lee, NJ, in protest against the ban of Negroes at the Park pool. Randolph, as Vice-Chairman of the Workers Defense League, sent a letter to the Department of Justice and requested that FBI agents be stationed at the Park as observers whenever CORE sent pickets to the Park. The letter also protested the brutal treatment received by those persons who were arrested. CORE, one of the organizations which sponsored the protests against the Park, listed Randolph as a member of its Advisory Committee. A letter written on CORE stationery and signed by Randolph, solicited donations to enable the fight to be continued the following year.

The following references in the file captioned "Benjamin Jefferson Davis, Jr.", file 100-149163, contain information pertaining to the activities of A. Philip Randolph and Davis. Davis stated that he wanted to see Randolph to try to persuade him not to run for Congress against Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. There was no indication that this occurred. Randolph, on the other hand, was active in opposing Davis in his race for City Councilman of NYC. Davis criticized Randolph and his civil disobedience movement. Efforts were made to get Davis and Randolph together, even though their positions were different and Davis wrote to Randolph along these lines. He urged the CP to start a crusade against George Meany for his attack on Randolph and he urged the CP to support Randolph in the NALC because a Negro trade unionist group could not be formed without him.

The following references pertain to the activities of A. Philip Randolph in urging Negroes and whites to refuse to register or be inducted until Jim Crowism was eliminated in the armed forces. The Committee Against Jim Crow In Military Service and Training, of which Randolph was National Treasurer, became the League of Non-Violent Civil Disobedience Against Military Segregation on 6/26/48. On 8/18/48, Randolph, Chairman of the League, announced that he and Grant Reynolds, a member of the organization's Executive Committee, were abandoning the movement on the strength of President Truman's announced plan to end segregation in the armed forces. As a result of Randolph's and Reynold's action, the League dissolved and a new organization entitled "Campaign to Resist Military Segregation" was established under the direction of Bayard Rustin. Rustin announced that their group would refrain from affiliating with any prominent racial figures such as Randolph and Reynolds.

The following references on A. Philip Randolph pertain to his activities in connection with FEPC legislation. From 1943 to 1952, he traveled to various sections of the US speaking to groups and organizations urging them to support FEPC legislation and to write their Congressmen and Senators to enlist their support. He founded the National Council For a Permanent FEPC. Randolph was attacked by the CP as an enemy because of his popularity with the Negroes and because he refused to work with the CP. He testified before the US Senate Education and Labor Sub-Committee which was investigating FEPC legislation, and accused the US of being the worst offender of racial discrimination. At many speaking engagements he solicited money to be used in the fight for a permanent FEPC.

HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED

DATE 06-20-2009 BY 60324 UC BAW/DK/RYS

TO : The Director

DATE: 4-11-68

FROM : N. P. Callahan

SUBJECT: The Congressional Record

Pages 12012-12013. Congressman Weylman, (D) Louisiana, spoke concerning the recent riots and pointed out that the singing of America's Anthem was a patriotic act because this singing "put us into perspective when compared to the deaths and injuries which have resulted. . . . That was wrong because we died in still worse; what was right to die in still right. . . . What we were interested in was in only a portion of what will come later this week. It is certain that federal government are permitted to enter into this city, and they are now moving and coming. If there is any complaint against law in this area, I use him to simplify these questions from that. Power advocates, and there are also with it in the hopes of some political gain." He also listed names: Hugo Blackwell, Stanley Carmichael, John Clayton Brown, etc. Mr. Weylman went on to urge the House, before we adjourn for Easter to express its will to the President and urge him to contact the leaders of the northern poverty march and tell them that, for the safety of the people in the Capital and in the surrounding area, the march must be canceled."
